ART EXHIBITIONS

Pictures by Robert Reid and George Haushalter.

in criticism there is no pleasure quite artist has his ups and downs and for a been giving Mr. Robert Reid some difficulty. He could not renew all at once the vivid and vigorous quality long characteristic of his work. Now it is returning to him, and the exhibition of eighteen pictures which he has opened at the Montross Gallery is one of the best he has ever put to his credit. It marks distinct progress and in one direction at least signifies an enrichment of his essential gift. He was always responsive to the fresh, exhilarating atmosphere to be found out of doors. But to-day the impressions he was wont to seek he makes more interesting to us through a greater refinement in the treatment of them, through a tenderer, more subtle feeling.

There is one landscape in this collection which would alone signify a growth in his art, the picture called "Winter." The spontaneity of the composition is delight-Obviously this scene was observed and captured in a free and happy moment. And having hit upon a felicitous theme the artist has painted it beautifully, getting the true snowy chill into his work and expressing it in tones that are pure and fine. He is, too, by the same token, his old versatile self. No less successful than the "Winter" is the lovely "Springtime," wherein again he beguites us, not only with racy truth, but with a netable delicacy. There are one or two of his landscapes, like the "Midsummer Pool" and the "September Roadside," which fall of their full effect through a want of clear definition. In them he seems to be feeling his way instead of stating with absolute authority, as the "Winter," exactly what he has to say. But these deviations from the standard only serve, on the other hand, to emphasize the persenal note which gives the show its value. The figure pieces have been painted indoors and in the open. The former make a graceful and decorative appeal. "The Violet Kimono" and "The Iridiscent Fan" are very attractive in their skilful, clever way. Still it is interesting to see how a oter born to do a certain thing will do that thing best no matter how far he may Reid an instinctive faculty for the painthe triumphs once more. Look at the pictcalled "October Garden," with its dainty figure strolling among the green things. It is merely exquisite, a picture redolent of nature and of the gracious element that is brought into it when a ever again Mr. Reid returns to this motive, sometimes in autumnal scenes and Once or twice he gives the figure all possible prominence and does so to excellent Susans" is a winning apparition, and we get a good portrait of a good model in more appreciative of those smaller canyases in which the figure, while assertive enough, is nevertheless placed in more or less subordination to the landscape. Everywhere Mr. Reid pours light and air into his work. He has got into his stride and is on the up-grade. His is a welcome

Mr. George Haushalter, who is having an exhibition at the Knoedler Gallery commands interest in certain experiments he has made. He has sought to revive the methods of the old masters in fresco, and he has achieved thereby an admirable dry texture which is both original and pleasis more to the point is that he has painted a series of purely delightful studies in France, Spain and Italy. He has a sense of the pleturesque, but he does not overdo it. Romantic though his architectural and landscape subjects may be, he handles them with a certain restraint, taking pains to work his material up into a simple and serious composition. He is a capital colorist, moveover, and whether he works in sunshine or in shadow gives us tones that are both sound and ingratifiting. Such notes of travel as these are not encountered every day in our local gaileries. The sincerity of an honest workman underlies all their clever pictorial points. We hope to see more of Mr. Haus-

At the Powell Gallery there is an exhibition of paintings by a group of representative women artists, including Charby D. Anthony Tauszky are on view at him the name of "Hero of 1838." Indouajians. Paintings and sculptures by citizens of New Haven gave him a purse of gold. He was twice a member of the General Assembly. Two daughters surlikent, Ivan Olinsky and others will be at the Market of the General Assembly. Two daughters surlikent, Ivan Olinsky and others will be at the Market of the General Assembly. Two daughters surlikent over by the Parisian in the citizens of New Haven gave him a purse of gold. He was twice a member of the General Assembly. Two daughters surlikent over by the Parisian in the citizens of New Haven gave him a purse of gold. He was twice a member of the General Assembly. Two daughters surlikent over by the Parisian in the citizens of New Haven gave him a purse of gold. He was twice a member of the General Assembly. Two daughters surlikent over by the Parisian in the citizens of New Haven gave him a purse of gold. He was twice a member of the General Assembly. Two daughters surlikent over by the citizens of New Haven gave him a purse of gold. He was twice a member of the General Assembly in the citizens of New Haven gave him a purse of gold. He was twice a member of the General Assembly in the citizens of New Haven gave him a purse of gold. He was twice a member of the General Assembly in the citizens of New Haven gave him a purse of gold. He was twice a member of the gold in the citizens of New Haven gave him a purse of gold in the citizens of New Haven gave him a purse of gold in the citizens of New Haven gave him a purse of gold in the citizens of the gold in the citizens of the citizens of the gold in the gold in the citizens of the gold in th the MacDowell Club for a fortnight, becinning next Thursday. The New York Historical Society has opened and will regular monthly exhibition of paintings. There is a new exhibition of old masters at the Fischer Gallery. To-day there opens at the Keppel Gallery an exhibi-R. C.

HANFORD-BOND.

The wedding of Miss Ethel Matthews Bond, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Bond and granddaughter of the late A. D. Matthews, and Ernest J. Hanford took place last evening in the Old Dutch urch, Flatbush. The Rev. Dr. J. street, Flatbush.

The bride was attended by her sister, Madeline Tilson. Robert Easton served as at the home of her daughter, was also a best man and the ushers were George H. well known writer. Gresham, of Manhattan; G. Edward Rolline, John C. Loud and William J. Logan, of Brooklyn

Mr. and Mrs. Hanford, on returning some at the Standish Arms, on Columbia

[By Telegraph to The Tribune.]

Philadelphia, Jan. 6.-The Pennsylvania Academy of Fine Arts has established a Prize to be known as the George D. Widener Memorial Medal, to be awarded for the most meritorious work in sculptare by an American citizen and shown the academy's current annual exhibi-

All Except $46,429 Goes to Vice-President's Widow.

Utica, Jan. 6.-The late Vice-President, James S. Sherman, left an estate valued at $370,075 30, according to to-day's report of the transfer tax appraiser. This is made up of personal property valued at like that of witnessing a revival of $370,025 30 and a small piece of creek botstrength in an artist of talent. Every such tom land in New Hartford, valued at $50, The debts and expenses amount to $46, season or two the latter appeared to have 429 34, and the net balance goes to Mrs. Sherman.

OBITUARY.

ERNESTUS SCHENCK GULICK.

Ernestus Schenck Gulick, a real estate broker, died early yesterday morning in his apartments, at No. 1 West 30th street. Pneumonia, following a cold which he contracted two weeks ago, was the im mediate cause of his death. With him when the end came were his brother, Herbert, and two sisters, Miss Virginia Gulick and Mrs. G. W. Copley.

As a real estate broker and operator Mr. Gulick was well known both in Manhattan and in Brocklyn. He was president of the Ernestus Gulick Company vice-president of the Garden City Estates, president of the Long Island Estates and president of the Hempstead South Company. Practically all these companies are prominent development concerns in the Brooklyn and Long Island real estate world.

Mr. Gulick was surrounded in his realty enterprises by some of the best known Brooklynites. He had devoted some years in transforming Garden City Estates into one of the best suburban home sections. With him in that task were associated ex-Lieutenant Governor Timothy L. Woodruff, William H. English and William G. Gilmore. Gage E. Tarbell is head of the corporation.

The deals in which Mr. Gulick had been Interested included the acquisition of property for practically all the big de partment stores in Brooklyn.

Starting in the real estate business when he was eighteen years old, Mr. Gulick had amassed a fortune after thirty years of active work. He was in his forty-eighth year. He was a native of Pekin, Ill., and was the son of U. de Hart and Virginia Schenck Gulick. He arrived in Brooklyn from his native town in 1883 Mr. Gulick was identified with the 23d Regiment. He was a member of Altair Lodge, F. and A. M., and the Dyker Meadows Golf, Riding and Driving, Monrange. Long ago we recognized in Mr. tauk and Brooklyn clubs, the Automobile Club of America, the Holland Society and ing of feminine types against sylvan the Municipal Art Society. The funeral backgrounds. It is with that faculty that will be held at the Marble Collegiate Church, Fifth avenue and 29th street, on Thursday morning at 10 o'clock.

HARRY PEYTON STEGER.

Harry Peyton Steger, a member of the terary staff of Doubleday, Page & Co. charming girl passes that way. Over and died on Sunday in the Polyclinic Hospital. Acute kidney disease was given as the cause of death, but yesterday it became again in an earlier period of the year. known that on New Year's Day he fell from a car and was taken to Bellevue Hospital. He left there on Friday against nurpose. The slim child in "Black-Eyed the advice of the surgeons and without signing the customary release. Steger was taken to Bellevue Hospital in a the "Autumn Glory." Yet we are even Flower Hospital ambulance, and the where his accident occurred. After he left Bellevue Mr. Steger went to the Hotel Caledonia, No. 28 West 26th street, and was removed from there to the Polyclinic Hospital.

Mr. Steger was born in Bonham. Tex. n 1876. After attending public schools there he entered the University of Texas. Following his graduation he attended Ox-ford as a Rhodes scholar and later studied in Germany for about a year. employed by "The Daily Mail" and other afraid I had lost you." dailies in London. He returned to this ing. But it is not on this technical aspect country about five years ago, and since of his work that we would dwell. What Page & Co. as literary adviser and editor of short stories. He was the literary executor of "O. Henry" and had just though the decline of her popularity has completed the compilation of the latter's > works. His perents and a sister, who live in son survive him. Mrs. Steger is in Paris. She went abroad for her health last November with Margaret Porter, daughter of Sidney Porter ("O. Henry"). Mrs. Steger will sail to-morrow for home on the Kaiser Wilhelm. Texas: his wife and a five-year-old step- faction. Giser Wilhelm.

> Mr. Steger was a member of the Friars, ambs and Dutch Treat clubs. His home was at Freeport, Long Island.

CAPTAIN OLIVER N. BROOKS.

Derby, Conn., Jan. 6.-Captain Oliver N. Brooks, an old-time coasting skipper and from 1851 to 1881 keeper of Faulkner's Island light, died last night at the home of a nephew here.

His daring on the night of November lette B. Coman, Alethea Hill Platt, 23, 1858, when the schooner Moses F. Webb Rhoda Holmes Nicholis, Anna Fisher and went ashore on Goose Island, near Faulkseveral others. Portraits and other works ner's Island, in a heavy gale gained for the Folsom Gallery. The Herter Gallery the storm, he put out in an open boat to is filled with paintings, water colors and the stranded craft and took off five men. aketches by the late Louis Loeb, and one at a time, as the high seas permitted with Oriental rugs, tapestries and other The Lifesaving Benevolent Association of objects sent over by the Parisian firm of New York awarded him a gold medal and is as grotesque in posture as ever. She

ENOS H. NEBEKER.

Covington, Ind., Jan. 6. - Enos H. continue until the end of June an exhibi- Nebeker, Treasurer of the United States tion of prints and broadsides relating to under President Harrison, died at his the War of 1812. On Thursday the Union home here to-day from a complication of League Club gives a private view of its diseases. He was seventy-six years old and for years a Republican leader in Indiana.

Mr. Nebeker was appointed Treasurer in 1891, having before that been engaged Bert Levy, with his sketches; James F. tion of etchings and drawings by Herman in the banking business for many years. The only public office he had previously Snaps"; Nina Morris and her players, in the Man with the Big Act; S. Miller Kent held was that of Auditor of Fountsin County, Ind. He was a candidate for United States Marshal for the Territory of Utah at the beginning of the Harrison administration, but the appointment went to another man.

MRS. CAROLINE B. STEWART.

Mrs. Caroline B. Stewart, widow of Lloyd performed the ceremony, which was William H. Stewart, died early yesterday human who wins through personality followed by a reception at the home of at her home, No. 12 Highland avenue, Mr. and Mrs. Bond, No. 479 East 17th Yonkers. Mrs. Stewart, who was fiftyeight years old, was well known as a has that same winning way where vaudemagazine and story writer. She was born ville audiences are concerned. Yesterday Mrs. G. Edward Rollins, who acted as in Syracuse and had lived in Yonkers he was the largest typed star on the new matron of honor; Miss Edith Hughes, of for forty-five years. Her mother, Mrs. Denver; Miss Marjorie Gillespie and Miss Mary E. Moffat, who died on Tuesday last more he is his original self-

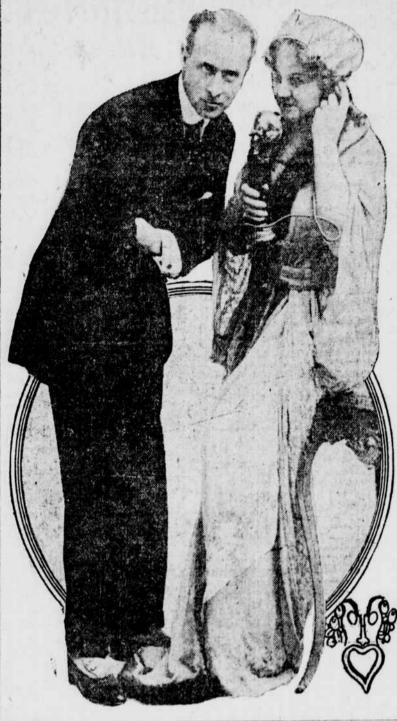

MRS. HENRIETTA W. GRIFFITH. of Francis J. Griffith, a real estate operfrom their wedding trip, will make their ator, died yesterday at her home, No. 185 Sheiton avenue, Jamaica, Long Island. WIDENER PRIZE FOR SCULPTORS.

Mrs. Griffith was born in New York City and was sixty-four years old. She came from a Poughkeepsie family. She was married to Mr. Griffith forty years ago.

KEY TO NEWSPAPER RELICS.

been made of the eighteenth century American newspapers in the Library of Congress. It was compiled by John Van field for dramatics these days. library periodical division, so that the act is one of the chief attractions. collection would be easier of access.

SHERMAN LEFT $370,000 LAURA HOPE CREWS AND H. B. WARNER, IN "BLACK-BIRDS," AT THE LYCEUM THEATRE.

AT THE VARIETIES

Colonial Audience Welcomes Eva Tanguay Back.

NEW UNDERWORLD SKETCH

Bellevue Hospital records do not show Frank Tinney, Mme. Hermann, Stella Mayhew and Bertha Kalich Other Headliners.

Eva Tanguay made a curtain speech at It followed her singing of several songs several dances. in her usual irrepressible fashion, and was a response to applause that lived up to the stock phrase of "rocking the thea-

New, Eva Tanguay is unique, which is a polite way of saying "freak." Theatrical ven to her own satisfaction why she pleases the public. But she does it, and been predicted for every year since she a long consignment to the more or less and Maurice and Florence Walton mak tender mercies of the outlying districts, even the turkey trot graceful. Rumor had it that her star was on the wane and that if she ventured to return stress herself had a touch of the same Frosini, accordeon player.

But, starting from a more or less doubtthe theatre, until finally she could make her escape only by singing that unforgettable lyric "I Don't Care."

What it is about Eva Tanguay that makes her the success she is is something for our weighty brethren the payas before, dances no more gracefully and song that is tinged with more than a pasts. little bitterness. But she "gets them" meaning the audience-and will probably go on doing so just as long as she continues to be Eva Tanguay.

pearance, and after it most of the crowd got up and went out. That was scarcely fair, either, for the remainder of the bill was good. The Marlo Trio, gymnasts; John Romano and Joe Briglio, musicians; Mack and Nella Walker, in a musica Kelly and Emma Pollock, in "Ginger "The Yellow Peril"; Ed Corelli and and company, in "The Real Q"; Rae Charles Gillette, in tumbling: May Tully Fenton and Her Yankee Lads, in a danand her company, in "The Battle Cry of cing diversion; Cunningham and Marien, Freedom," and the Lozano Troupe, tight on the programme.

favorite Celtic fashion for describing a plus something more. Frank Tinney may be any nationality under the sun, but he he was the largest typed star on the new | Whip.

"Did you ever see such an idiot" hardly sounds like a compliment, but it is Mrs. Henrietta Wiedeman Griffith, wife auditors who yesterday laughed like the for the entire summer of 1915, during the proverbial hyena at his foolishness. Prob-time of the Panama Exposition. ably what he laughed at will be something he can't recall to-day, but it is enough if he got his money's worth of chorties at the time, which he and a good was many others had no difficulty in doing. Thrills as a substitute for laughter come on the Victoria's bill, where System" holds the boards. Taylor Gran-Washington, Jan. 6.-A check list has ville and Laura Pierpont are the leading players in this absorbing sketch of the underworld, which seems to be a favorite Ness Ingram, chief assistant of the Ching Ling Foo and his associates, the The remainder of the sill is made up of which will begin at 8:15 to-night.

"The Honey Girls," a tabloid musical comedy, with Freeman and Dunham, Visions d'Art, Andy Rice, Bon Linn, the Gregoria-Elmina company and Al. Ed-leading attractions. She sings a number of pleasing songs in a pleasing fashion. Rose Crouch, with George Welch, also theory which had ushered in the play?

At E. F. Keith's Union Square Theatre from magic to misses of attractive type as been combined.

Crane, in their new sketch, "The Other in F. Troublesome Trunk"; the Dare Brothers, glers.

first appeared she maintains her hold on Miss Sears, in Edgar Allen Woolf's playlet. "The Wardrobe Woman," is as entertaining as in her appearances in the full At her reappearance of yesterday she fledged drama, Stella Mayhew, assisted returned to the New York varieties after by Billee Taylor, is as funny as ever,

The remainder of the bill contains Mc Kay and Cantwell, Harry De Coe, Redto the glories of Manhattan she would ford and Winchester, Clara Inge, vocalfind her welcome no longer as noisy as of list; Les Gougets, instrumentalists; Buryore. Evidently even the eccentric song- ley and Burley, acrobatic comedians, and

At B. F. Keith's Albambra Theaire ful reception on her first appearance. Bertha Kalich is presenting the tragic Miss Tanguay increased in favor with an bit of drama, "A Light from St. Agnes." audience that threatened to overflow For the rest of the bill there are ida Brooks Hunt and Cherldah Simpson, in The Melba and Caruso of Vandeville" the Four Athletas, acrobats; the Sully Family, in "The Information Bureau" chologists to determine. She is not as H. T. MacConnell, as "The President of young as she once was, she sings as badly the Thirteen Club"; John Geiger, with his the Thirteen Club"; John Geiger, with his violin that talks; Cartmell and Harris dancers; the Dolce Sisters, singers; Madge P. Maitland, in song selections, and the Three Gladenbocks, pantomimic gym-

R. F. Keith's Bronx Theatre this week prising Mme. Olga Petrova, in "Comedy Yesterday afternoon's audience was n prising Mine. Olga Petrova, in "Comedy Tanguay audience. It waited for her apand Tragedy"; Kathryn Kidder and company, in "The Washerwoman Duchess" Gertrude Vanderbilt and George Moore, grandmas. in songs and dances; Conroy and Le Maire, in "The New Physician"; Wilbur flirtation; Mr. and Mrs. Mark Murphy, in "Clancy's Ghost"; Adolph Zink, the Litacrobatic comedians; Sutton, McIntyre wire performers, were the other numbers and Sutton, in "The Pumpkin Girl," and Bradna and Derrick, double bareback rid-

THEATRICAL NOTES.

Geraldine Farrar was hostess last night Opera House to witness the performance of the Drury Lane meledrama, "The Arrangements were completed vesterday by Charles Dillingham for the appearance of Montgomery and Stone and where Tinney is concerned. At least, it Elsie Janis in "The Lady of the Slipper" was meant for such by one of Tinney's at the Columbia Theatre, San Francisco,

Miss Ethel Barrymore is to figure as an actress in the moving picture theatre, having signed a contract with the Famous Players Film Company, of which Daniel Frohman is the managing director. The eighth annual Hippodrome ball will be given by the attachés of the big playhouse next Tuesday evening at Palm Garden, 58th street, near Lexington avenue, At the Astor Theatre last night there was a final rehearsal of "Fine Feathers," the first metropolitan performance of

"BLACKBIRDS"

Another Crook Play with a Queer Kink at Lyceum.

ABOUT A PRAYER RUG

Through Which the Underworld Gets Religion and Plays Roulette for an Honest Living.

An odd little point about "Blackbirds," presented at the Lyceum last night, was that it ended where most plays begin It ended with the first dramatic situation of the evening. With the hero in full flight down the outside wall of a Detroit mansion, the heroine left behind in the noonlight, praying for a new life for them both in Nome, and the police about to rush into the room, the curtain falls. is this a kind way to send an audience out into the night?

The play opens with a rather charming theory. . It is just this: If you are born an illegitimate son of a proud English earl, and find yourself on that account inhospitably received by a cold world, that same world owes you a living. But not all the world. Only those people owe it to you who are newly rich, and therefore snobs who are cruel to their grandma. Or, if you are not the near-son of English earl, but the sure-enough daughter of a man who "makes false money," and are brought up to smuggle goods past Mr. Loeb, the world also owes you a living, and on precisely the same terms as though you were the other thing

In "Blackbirds" the almost son and the altogether daughter meet and love on a westbound Atlantic liner. Each as sumes from evidence of dress, manner and deportment that the other belongs to the nobility. They also meet one of those families which owes them a living. It is an "Amurrican" family of the type Hoyt made famous several seasons ago. They have no ancestors except a grandmother, who gives them a social black theatregoers last night. The presentaeye whenever she appears. But they have nough money to buy out the French government and they seek culture. Fair game for those to whom the world is in

The two blackbirds, after they have together for life, proceed to Detroit as ndeavor to extract payment after their particular bent. The crook tries to get his illustrious brother, Lord Liewellyn Trask, and the daughter of his host, while he crookess steals a 40,000-gulden prayer rug which had been bought in Vienna.

But here is where Grandma came in With a quite haphazard talk about ethics general and the punishment of sinners particular, she effects a complete revoution in the naïve little smuggler, who for the current week there is more than gets religion so suddenly that she puts the usual amount of novelty. Everything the prayer rug right back and walks up to her boudoir with a white soul.

It was nice for little Leonie Sobatsky, Mme. Adelaide Herrmann, widow of the smuggler, because, presumably, she Herrmann the Great, provides the illu- was thereby laying up nuts for the jong ions in a series of unique spectacles. As winter in heaven, but this sudden confor the charms of the various performers, version was very rough on the dramahere were of wide variety.

Helle Blanche, who threatens to desert leave the house of a thousand pretences We were there to see the prayer rug audeville for light opera, is one of the and go back to the mosque of Allah, whence it had come.

Besides, what about that nicely turned Providence, indeed, has for many years For the remainder of the bill there are seemed to be on the side of the American then entered the newspaper field and was tre." The text of it was short: "I was One"; Alf Grant and Ethel Houg, in "The The two crooks, though of low comedy acrobats, and the De Koe Troupe, jug- pleasantly light comedy manners. Laura them actual experience of its rougher standard they set. Hope Crews and H. B. Warner, who side find that memory treasures only the these parts, took them con spirito e con amore. The scene in the first act leaving elevated railroads, subways and rice and Walton furnish three widely dif- in which their mutual confession of crookferent sorts of entertainment at Proctor's dom was made was done very amusingly. and independence of the country find in it Fifth Avenue Theatre, but all win out. Many glasses in the auditorium were lev- a reflection of their hopes, too liable to elled with added interest and excitement recurring postponement. The simple life at Miss Crews's eyes, from which real- was simple solely because of the absence r-e-a-1-tears dropped. It recalled that of the complexities of modern existence; part of "Tristan und Isolde" where Kur- it was harder because of the absence of very one in the auditorium wakes up and is idyllic, and the idyllic is frequently a rustles around to see the ship come in. Mr. Warner got a way of hanging his Jimmy Valentine. No wonder, of course The only amazement is that an actor can ever really shake off a part he has played for three years.

Miss Crews has her little dancy way still-on tiptoe, with girlishness, spirits, curls and dimples, or all droopy and forlorn if things go wrong. She was quite the heroine of romance when she suggested to her lover that they go off to operatic selections; Mack and Orth, in that gay little town in Alaska called "The Wrong Hero", Bixley and Lerner, Nome and open a casino, where they could make an honest living at roulette and rouge et noir.

Ada Dwyer reappeared in the telling role of Grandma. She took it seriously, as ordered by the dramatist, but even her stern authority could not convince a frivolous audience that there was anything in her sermon. Mathilde Cottrelly did her suavest as the old French maid Suzanne, and it was more enjoyable to hear her rendering of a French accent of English than Miss Crews's Polish accent. has a bill of twelve well known acts, com- Sydney Valentine played with forceful solemnity the role of a weathered crook of the calibre that would not change bis colors even at the bidding of twenty

The new play is by Harry James Smith. If only the dramatists had something to write about and would wait until they grew up before they wrote it.

CAST OF "BLACKBIRDS." CAST OF BLACKBIRDS.

Suzanne Mme Mathilde Cottrelly
Mr. Rechel Sydney Valentine
Leonie Sobatsky Miss Laura Hope Crews
Page Boy. Robert Young
The Hon Nevil Trask H. B. Warner
Mrs. Edna Crocker Miss Ethel Winthrop
Arline Crocker Miss Jean Galibratin
Howard Crocker James Bradbury
Grandma Miss Ada Dwyer Howard Crocker James Bradbury Grandma Miss Ada Dwyer Barclay E. L. Duane

AT THE ONE WEEK THEATRES.

At the theatres giving established suc esses the present week has brought three well known plays. "Hawthorne of the at a theatre party at the Manhattan U. S. A.," with Douglas Pairbanks as the star, is at the Grand Opera House. "The Bird of Paradise" is at the West End, and at B. F. Keith's Harlem Opera House "The Awakening of Helen Richie," Margaret Anglin's former success, is being played. In "Hawthorne of the U. S. A." Mr.

Fairbanks is repeating his success achieved for the last few weeks at the Astor Theatre. In the cast with him are Irene Fenwick, Allan Pollock, Sam B. Hardy, Martin L. Alsop and Rapley Holmes.

Bessie Barriscale, who created the par of "The Bird of Paradise" in Richard Walton Tully's play on its first performance in stock, is playing the part now with members of the original Broadway company. Others in the cast are Guy Rates Post and Lewis S. Stone. "The Awakening of Helena Richie" being interpreted with Priscilla Knowles and George Soule Spencer in the two principal parts.

A YOUNG PIANIST'S RECITAL Miss Tina Lerner's Pretty Accomplishments.

Some two or three years ago a young and physically attractive woman burst upon the New York public amid a considerable blare of trumpets and, after the usual flutter, disappeared. At that time reviewers with punning tendencies probaly thought, if they did not say, that there was something appropriate in her name, which was Tina Lerner. Yesterday the same little lady played in a recital at Acolian Hall and, if there had not been so much maturity in some of the technical elements of her performance, the old pun would have had appropriateness. Miss Lerner played some exquisitely dainty passages, belonging peculiar-ly to the pianoforte, in a pecultarly fascinating manner-the pianissimi in the Strauss-Tausig waltz, "Man lebt nur einmal," for instance—and she also showed, which was much more surprising, a fine conception of the senti-ment and tone color appropriate to the slow movement of Schumann's F sharp minor sonata, which is a piece of music of a very different calibre; but she left her audience just as much in ignorance of the profound beauty of the rest of the sonata as she did of the scintillant brilliancy of the waltz transcription. Whether edification concerning the Chopin pieces which she played to tell how she brought out some of their prettiness while failing to promulgate their poetry as completely as she failed to proclaim the message of the Schumann sonata. And yet, except in these too ambitious efforts, she disclosed herself as a young player of really fine achievements as well as promise.

"ANATOL" IS SEEN AGAIN

Satirical Schnitzler Comedy Is Repeated at Maxine Elliott's. Anatol and his various love episodes

as characterized by Dr. Schnitzler in his "The 'Affairs' of Anatol," was again shown for toe amusement of New York tion was made at Maxine Elliott's theatre by the company which previously presented the play at the Little Theatre. In the present performance of the play, which is being given for two weeks only. Winthrop Ames has retained the original iscovered each other and agreed to work players with one exception. That is Katherine Harris, who has succeeded nvited guests of their debtors, and both Marguerite Clark in the first of the five episodes. The part calls for ingenuousness and a simple treatment, and in advance moneys on an alliance between those respects Miss Harris realized the slight demands put upon her. John Barrymore as Anatol, Oswald Yorke as Max, and Doris Keane, Gail Kane, Katherine Emmett and Isabelle Lee as the four remaining loves, again presented an Signor Amato did not succeed in doing effective ensemble.

"WAY DOWN EAST" AGAIN.

Down East," which was presented at the which fact goes for much in opera. Sig-Broadway Theatre last night to an audience that filled the house, except that spiriting sincerity which never fails him it is in the eighteenth year of its career and bids fair to become perennial. A director's desk. simple story of the old-fashioned kind, with which library shelves were formerly crowded, and in which virtue was ways rewarded and vice as inevitably punished, its stage setting is as oldfashioned as the theme and its treatment. Times and conditions have changed, however, and "Way Down East" must the American Beauties, or the Beauties seem strange even in the New England and Cook and Lorenz, made little differthe Colonial Theatre yesterday afternoon. sings, and with her associate executes Evidently Providence decided against it. it is intended to portray, for telephones, ance at the Columbia Theatre last evenelectric roads, rural free delivery and au- ing, for between them they made a show tomobiles have robbed communities of which hardly needed the unusually fine Charles Drew and his company, in "Mr. millionaire, even if he does say "turri-Lynn from Lynn"; Mr. and Mrs. Gardner ble" and speak of Rosenstein's "Melody tration of interests about the home fivetration of interests about the home treplace.

origin, proved last night to have quite indefinitely. The few whose boyhood gave the performance was fully up to the who dream o asphalt pavements for the fancted peace Marie Dressler Alleges That Theatriwenal cries "Das Schiff! Das Schiff!" and modern conveniences. In imagination it says that she was engaged to play twenty relief, especially as a change.

"THE RIVALS" REVIVED.

For the last play in her nine weeks' season of old English comedy at the Thirty-ninth Street Theatre Annie Russell and her associate players gave Richard Brinsley Sheridan's "The Rivals" last night. The performance, which is one of the most pleasing results of the engagement, was repeated with Miss Russell as Lydia Languish, George Giddens as Bob Acres, Ffolliott Paget as Mrs. Malaprop and Frank Reicher as Captain Jack Absolute.

DEBUTS AT THE UNION SQUARE.

Mary Ambrose, an English contraite and violinist, and Louise Brehany, a California violinist, and Louise Brehany, a California soprano, made their debuts in vaudeville at Keith's Union Square Theatre last right, in a musical sketch by Herbert Hall Winslow. The sketch deals amusingly with the trials of vaudeville artists in search of an engagement, but includes some singing which won for the singers several recalls.

WHAT IS GOING ON TO-DAY.

Free admission to the American Museum of Natural History, the Metropolitan Mu-seum of Art, the New York Zoological Park, and the Van Cortlandt Park Mu-

Meeting of the Daughters of the Confederacy, Hotel Asior, 10 a. m.

Meeting and dinner of the Manhattanville Alumnæ, Waldorf-Astoria, all day. Meeting of the Society of Kentucky Women, Waldorf-Astoria, 2 p. m.

Meeting of the Knickerbocker Relief Club, Walderf-Asteria, 2 p. m. Waldorf-Asteris. 2 p. m.
Dinner of the Alumni Association of Ken-yon College, Hotel Brevoort, evening. Addresses on "Retirement and the Pros-pects of Retirement Legislation Being Soon Enacted," at public meeting of the Fed-eral Civil Service Society, Old First Pres-byterian Church, 11th street and Fifth avenue, 8 p. m.

Meeting of the New York Historical Sciety, No. 170 Central Park West, S.

p. m. Address by Vilhialmar Stefansson on "Five Years of Arctic Exploration from Bering Struit to Coronation Guif," at the meet-ing of the American Geographical Society, No. 29 West 30th street, 8:30 p. m.

Meeting of the Architectural League and National Sculpture Society, No. 215 West 57th street, 8:30 p. m. Ball for the benefit of the New York Diet Kitchen Association, Auxiliary No 1, Hotel Plaza, 9 p. m.

Kitchen Association, Auxiliary No 1, Hotel Plaza, 9 p. m.
Public lectures of the Board of Education.
8:15 p. m.: Manhattan—Wadleigh High School. 114th street and Seventh avenue.
"The Immigrant Tide," Dr. James P. Lichtenberger: Public School 4. Rivington and Ridge streets, "Life and Industries of the Japanese." James Walter Doughty, Public School 63, 4th street, east of First avenue, "Oregon," James R. Lynch; Public School 66, 8sth street, east of First avenue, "Oregon," James R. Lynch; Public School 68, 4th street, east of First avenue, "Child Play," Scott Nearing; Public School 64, 147th street, east of Seventh avenue, "Folk Song and Art Song," Miss Mari F. MacConnell; Public School 132, 182d street and Wadsworth avenue, "The Making of New China," Sidney N. Ussher; Public School 169, Audubon avenue and 169th street, "Algiers and Alsoria," Mrs. Jennic Pomerene Haney; Museum of Natural History, Tith street and Central Park West, "Paris and the French Revolution," Garrett P. Serviss; Metropolitan Temple, Seventh avenue and 14th street, "Dante, the Soul's Pligrimage," Professor Christian Gauss; St. Cornelius Church, No. 423 West 46th street, "Alaska and Her Wonderful Resources," Miss Emma E, Steiner.

SHAKESPERIAN OPERA

"Otello" Done Into Music at the Metropolitan Opera House.

It will be an easier, and possibly a pleasanter, task for the operatic chronicler two decades or so from now than for the present recorder of affairs to explain why two of the best (if not the best two) operas of the greatest Italian composer of the last half century, when the fort-unes of the Metropolitan Opera House were at the flood, never achieved more than a respectful hearing in New York. Verdi's "Otello" and "Falstaff" not only have familiarity and poetic grandeur of subject to recommend them to the general public, but also the finest of Verdi's music and the unique element of being the only Shakespearian operas which have maintained a hold of some kind in the two countries to whom Shakespeare is native. Germany still clings mildly to Nicolai's "Merry Wives of Windsor" and Goetz's "Taming of the Shrew"-two operas which might well be incorpo-rated into the Metropolitan repertory. France has Gounod's "Roméo et Juliette" (which we, too, accept on sufferance at times when we have attractive or not anything more need be said about representations of the ill-starred lovers her present immature artistic capacity is of Verona and Saint-Saëns's "Henri a question which cannot concern the VIII," with which venturesome managers large public. It would not add to popular have threatened us at times, only to spare us at the end, not to forget Ambroise Thomas's "Hamlet." which recently put off the decent cerements, in which it had long been laid in order that the melancholy prince might sing his drinking song-"Brindisi" is the operation word-through the sensational voice of Titta Ruffo. As for the other Shakespearian operas, they are as dead as a loornail-and probably deserve to be. It is therefore an unhappy reflection that a Monday night performance of "Otello' should not have called out anything like a house such as Caruso would have sumnoned with "Il Trovatore," or Caruso and Farrar combined with any opera that ever stood on the New York list-not excepting "The Bohemian Girl."

Neither the opera nor the performance deserved such careless treatment. There was an exceptionally fine representation of the Moor, as New York well knows, in Herr Slezak; in fact, there is no character in which he reaches so heroic a stature, histrionically as well as musically, as he does in this splendid creation of Verdi's-and nothing that Mme. Alda has ever done awakens so much sincere sympathy as her impersonation of Desdemona. There have been occasions in the past in which the representative of lago has put him of the Moor to his trumps, so to speak, as indeed he ought always to do in the opera as we'll as in the original tragedy, and perhapthat last night, for subtlety of characterization in action or singing is not a distinguishing feature of his art; but he Nothing new can be said of "Way exhibited a beautiful voice throughout, nor Toscanini conducted with the innor the representation when he is at the H. E. K.

COLUMBIA SHOW PLEASES

American Beauties Vie with Cook and Lorenz for Honors.

Whether it was Cook and Lorenz and The three musical maids, Carnes, Griffin Such a play of farm life will continue and Burns, were a treat, and the rest of cal Firm Broke Her Contract.

WEBER AND FIELDS SUED

Marie Dressler, the comedienne, filed suit yesterday against Weber and Fields for breach of contract. Miss Dressler, who is Mrs. James Dalton in private life weeks with the defendants in their new theatre at $1,500 a week, but that after she had played four weeks she was re-

Joe Weber said last night that Miss Dressler left his employ of her own accord and did not ask to be reinstated in the company.

GEORGE ADE NOT BADLY HURT. Lafayette, Ind., Jan. 6,-George Ade, playwright and humorist, who fell on a slippery sidewalk yesterday afternoon and was thought to be badly injured, was out to-day. Mr. Ade says that he feels no effects from the fall.

Birmingham, Mary J. O'Brien, Keran, Graham, Isabella A. Jones, Charles N. McKenna, Catherine, Mussey, Caroline L. Wells, Arthur S.

BIRMINGHAM—Peacefully, on Sunday, January 5, 1913, in her eighty-second year, Mary Jane (Kenney) Birmingham, daughter of the late Rev. Silas and Rhoda (Bates) Kenney, and wife of the Rev. Dr. Daniel M. Birmingham. Funeral services will be held at her late residence, No. 58 West 57th st., New York, on Tuesday, January 7, at 11 a. m.

GRAHAM—At Wechawken, N. J., January 5, Isabelia A. Graham (née Allan), widow of the late Myron James Graham, in her 60th year, formerly of Newton Center, Mass. Relatives and friends are respectfully invited to attend the funeral from her late residence, No. 37 Pleasant ave., Weehawken, on Tuesday, at 2 p. m. interment at Delawanna, N. J. Boston, Mass.) mapers please copy. p. in. (Mass.) papers please copy.

JONES Charles Nelson Jones, born Oberlin, Ohio, August 29, 1848; died New York City, January 3, 1913. Funeral January 7, at 4 p. m., J. Winterbottom & Son, No. 620 8th ave. Ann Arbor and Oberlin papers please copy.

M'KENNA—On January 4, 1913, Catherine, widow of Daniel McKenna. Funeral from her late residence, No. 724 Franklin ave., Brooklyn, on Wednesday, January 8, at 9

MUSSEY-At her home, Washington, D. C. January 6, 1913, Caroline Lindsly, widow of W. H. Müssey, M. D., of Cincinnati, Ohlo, and daughter of the late Harvey Lindsly, M. D., and Emeline Webster Lindsly, of Washington, D. C.

O'BRIEN-Suddenly, on January 6, 1913, Keran O'Brien, M. D. PALMER—On December 23, 1912, in Paris, France, Beriah, son of the late Stephen H. and the late Mary A. Palmer and brother of Stephen S. Palmer, Funeral services at St. Mary's P. E. Church, corner of Classon and Wilhoughby aves., Brooklyn, Wednesday, PITKIN—On Sunday, January 5, 1913, Mrs. J. Pitkin, beloved mother of Mrs. Florence E. Kirchner. Funeral services at her late resi-dence. No, 1072A Lafayette ave. Brooklya, Wednesday evening, 8 o'clock. Interment pri-

SMITH On Saturday, January 4, 1913, Sarah 1. Smith. Funeral services at her late residence. No. 725A Quincy st., Brooklyn, on Tuesday, January 7, at 8 p. m.

WEILS—At Detroit, Mich., on January 2, 1913, Arthur S. Wells, aged 21 years. Services at the residence of his parents, No. 451 Jefferson ave., Brooklyn, on Tuesday evening, January 7, at 8 o'clock. Interment private of the part of the private of CEMETERIES. THE WOODLAWN CEMETERY, 233d St. By Harlem Train and by Trelley. Office, 20 East 23d St., N. Y.

UNDERTAKERS. PRANK E. CAMPBEL. 241-8 West 234 St. Chapels, Private Rooms, Private Ambe-lances. Tel. 1324 Chelses.